(b) A small portion of JRY resources (viz. 5% of JRY funds or a maximum of Rs. 75 crores) has been kept apart for implementation of special & Innovative projects under Innovative JRY at the national level to benefit special groups of people or areas, which are currently getting by-passed by the on-going rural development programmes such as primitive tribal people, migrant labourers, bonded labourers and remote, extremely backward & inaccesible areas.

(c) and (d) The JRY has been functioning very well since its inception. However, to make its implementation more effective, scheme was restructured and streamlined w.e.f. 1.1.1996. The IAY and MWS, the sub-schemes of JRY were delinked and made independent schemes by themselves. Intensified JRY was merged with Employment Assurance Scheme (EAS). Now, JRY is being implemented as a separate scheme throughout the country.
